ROUNDAABOUT TOWN By G. A. MARTIN.

ETB makes this a singing, jolly, happy campaign this time and drop the gronches. Each party has a good man at the head of its ticket and the platforms offer somewhat of a wide choice, so we can all decide our course and keep it without growing angry, if we will.

Here are some political songs we can sing at our rallies this fall. They will work for either party in "Smiles" just substitute Democratic or Republican for the dash and sing until your throat hurts.

LONG, LONG TRAIL.
There's a long, long trail winding that leads us on to Victory,
That leads to four years of peace and prosperity.
We'll get behind our candidate then it's easy to see,
That we'll travel down that long, long trail to Victory.

SMILES.
We are smiling because we're happy, we are smiling because we're glad,
And we'll all be smiling next November for we know we won't be feeling sad,
We'll elect a president now we know that this is very true,
For the man who got our nomination is the right man for me and you.

OVER THERE.
Over there, over here, send the word, send the word from over here
That the votes are coming, the votes are coming.
They're coming in from far and near; we can see, Victory, for our nominee—we'll about it everywhere.
We'll put him over, yes, put him over, and we're going to put him in the white house chair.

El Paso hasn't the worst street cars in the world. Here's what some one wrote about the Cincinnati cars when I was there:
Talk about your trolley rides; there's one that can't be beat;
It's the dinky little jenny that rolls along our street.
No need to travel the oceans, where you become seasick—
Just ride upon this jenny—and it will do the trick.

A reader sends in this recipe for the manufacture of heat, something everyone should know how to put together in the battle against the H. C.
"Chop up into fine bits everything left over from yesterday and then mix carefully with two table-spoonsful of pepper, thus cunningly disguising what's in the hash. If your employers

Don't like it, quit and get a job in an overall factory at $40 a week.
NOT POETRY—JUST RHYMES!
Last night the man was peevish and snore,
Tonight we see him dance and laugh.
The reason's that the folks next door have broke their dog-gone phonograph.

I feel so good I'd like to shout,
There's laughter now in every tone!
The landlord threw my neighbor out
And smashed his dog-gone auto-phones.
—Hastings (Neb.) Tribune.

I'm happy, too, I wave my hat,
My cup of joy will hold no more;
The girl who sang in the next flat
Can't thrill a note—her throat is sore.
—San Diego Union.

All that's a picnic for you guys,
But listen to my tale of woes;
The fellow next door, darn his eyes,
Still whistles on his piccolo.
—San Francisco Call.

Ann said he even tried her home brew before it was ready for drinking, that he tried her lemon flavored extract, tried her hair tonic to short he tried everything that gave promise of a kick and that she was tired.

It's funny, but a man named Babler told the first news of the Democratic boding in Missouri.
IF YOU SEE A HON IN THE TROPICAL WINDING, SUCH AS IS COMMON IN THE GREAT COAST, READING "THINGS THAT ARE PERCENT OFF" REMEMBER IT ONLY REFERS TO PRICE.

Talk about the eternal fitness of things, A Chicago judge dismissed a man charged with stealing food when the fellow testified that all he took was some lettuce sandwiches.

L. E. Trendelen, former manager of the El Paso, Teller and Mount Franklin Country clubs, is now manager of the Westward Ho Golf club, of Chicago. The club is located at Oregon station, near Chicago. Announcement of events planned and given this summer by the club indicate that the young manager is as active as he was when in El Paso.

Every small boy wants to eat on a dinner car. Little Chris was at the station lunch counter, waiting for the train, and he was being urged to eat. "Daddy," he said, "won't you get me up any more, if you do I can't eat on the dinner car."

WE'LL SAY SHE DID.
(Pargo, Dakota, Enterprise.)
The wife of William Madden, presented her husband with triplets Tuesday. Mother and offspring are all doing well.

Fred E. LeCompte, of the theatrical firm of LeCompte & Fletcher, of Chicago, is now in Norway with Mrs. LeCompte visiting her old home, and he writes: "If you have any friends coming to Europe, tell them to bring as little baggage as possible. They will have trouble getting it out of England."

Mr. LeCompte was here with his show, "The Sunshine Lady," last winter. Mrs. LeCompte had the principal role. On the stage she is known as Miss Granda.

They were gathering straw-berries in the garden.
"Why not gather some vegetables, too?" she asked.
"Let's see!"

You tell 'em, customer; you're satisfied.

EL PASO'S NEEDS
The biggest need that has been met, in the humble opinion of one who still believes there is room between picture houses for some of "the spoken word" upon the stage, is the inauguration of vaudeville at the Alhambra Theater.

Vance Walker has brought a vaudeville circuit into the city and is giving the people a class of entertainment that thousands spend their money to see every week in Denver, Kansas City, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle, Portland and all the larger western cities. It is good clean entertainment and deserving of the support of the people of El Paso.
